at David Lewis,
through Jan. 12
88 Eldridge St.

With Lucy Dodd's "Cake 4 Catfish," David Lewis Gallery has its first solo show since opening in October in Miguel Abreu's new Chinatown arts duplex. Dodd, who graduated from Bard's MFA program in 2011 and performed in that year's Performa with Sergei Tcherepnin, built a yard sale-esque chaos of lawn furniture, knotted ropes and paper drawings in the gallery's entrance. The ramshackle installation gives way to the main room's set of mammoth canvases; made with materials ranging from dog urine to kombucha SCOBY, they're somewhere in between action paintings and water damage.
