Dawn Kasper at David Lewis, New York

The performance artist Dawn Kasper usually puts herself at the center of her practice, sometimes involving the audience in her interdisciplinary performances. But in David Lewis' booth the work itself - inspired by the installation the artist created in the gallery for her last solo show - relates to the public. The Duchampian sculptures are cymbals with bells attached, that sound as somebody passes by. LISTE Art Fair, Basel, Switzerland, June 13-18 2017
