

ARTNEWS

JARED MADERE AT WHITNEY MUSEUM, SELECTED BY DAWN KASPER

BY The Editors of ARTnews POSTED 12/16/15 3:38 PM

Jared Madere, Untitled, 2015, mixed media, installation view.

BILL JACOBSON/COURTESY DAVID LEWIS GALLERY, NEW YORK/COLLECTION OF THE ARTIST

Pictures at an Exhibition presents images of one notable show every weekday. This week's shows were picked by artist Dawn Kasper. Read more about this week's Pictures here.

Today's show: Jared Madere's solo show is on view at the Whitney Museum in New York until Sunday, January 3. The large-scale installation, on view in the museum's first-floor gallery, is made of a wide range of materials, including cement, a remote control, PVC, marble dust, tinted chrome, cable ties, nylon rope, fans, twine, scarves, silk bows, and burlap.